

★ ★ ★
CLEAN ENERGY

==
DC

ENERGY-PALOOZA!

Saturday, September 23, 2-4 PM - Open House Style
Greater Washington Urban League Community Room
2901 14th Street NW, Washington, DC 20009

Join the District of Columbia's Department of Energy and Environment for an afternoon of hands-on fun and learning about energy in the District. Bring the whole family for fun activities and useful information. Kids and adults can build solar-powered model cars and homes. Learn easy ways to reduce your energy use, save money, and help protect the environment. Get information on how to get solar panels for your home. Join the city's efforts to save energy and fight climate change. And take home a set of fun and useful prizes.

Food, giveaways, and kids' activities will be provided. The Greater Washington Urban League building is at the intersection of 14th and Harvard Streets NW, just two blocks from the Columbia Heights Metro Station on the Green and Yellow Lines.

