GOVERNMENT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Department of Energy and Environment

Solar for All Program Community Solar Subscription Agreement
Terms and Conditions

Subscription Start Date: Your subscription will start upon receipt of all required documents by DOEE and enrollment into Pepco's billing system. In the event projects are fully subscribed, your enrollment will be triaged and assigned to next available subscription allotment based on household characteristics defined by the program. Pepco regulations allow subscriptions to be updated once every 90 days. After you submit all required information and accept these Terms and Conditions, we will update all subscription enrollment information with Pepco during the next possible quarter. Once Pepco receives updated enrollment information, we anticipate you will begin to receive credits on your electric bill within 60 days, but the actual time may vary on a case-by-case basis depending in part upon the time it takes for you to submit your signed terms and conditions agreement.

Term: Your subscription will last for three (3) years from the subscription start date. In order to renew after three years, you must maintain your current address and Pepco account number, and you must provide documentation certifying that you continue to meet the eligibility requirements below.

Continuing Eligibility: If, during the benefit period of your subscription, you are no longer eligible for the Program because your income is too high, you are legally obligated and agree to notify DOEE within 60 days of your change of status.

Credit Price: Free. You will not pay anything for your subscription.

Credit Calculation: Your Pepco electric bill will be reduced by an amount (in dollars) corresponding to the monetary value of solar electricity generated by the community solar energy facility in connection with your subscription. This reduction, or bill credit, is called a community net metering credit (CNM Credit). The value of the CNM Credit for your subscription in any month will equal the community solar energy facility's electricity production for the month multiplied by your subscription percentage, multiplied by the Residential CNM Credit rate established by Pepco pursuant to Public Service Commission of the District of Columbia regulations. The value of the credits allocated to you may change each billing cycle depending on your percentage allocation, the Residential CNM Credit Rate, and actual solar production. The CNM calculation is set forth in the following equation:

(Solar facility output kWh x subscription %) x credit rate $ = $ Your CNM Credits.

Credit Benefit: We will size your subscription so that the CNM Credits will offset approximately 50% of your electric utility bills based on the District's 2016 average residential usage. The value of your CNM Credits may vary depending upon actual solar production each month throughout the year, which changes depending on the weather. You will likely receive more CNM Credits in the summer than the winter due to the increased sunshine in the summer months. The CNM Credits you receive also depend upon the Residential CNM Credit rate, which changes seasonally. DOEE may also modify your subscription allocation once each year to align with your actual electricity consumption from the previous twelve months. Because these changes are outside of our control, you agree to allow us to modify your subscription allocation percentage from time to time as needed to help you achieve your eligible program benefit. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary, District regulations prevent you from receiving credits greater than 120% of your annual historic electricity consumption, so your CNM Credit allocation will not exceed this amount. You will not receive a cash payment for your subscription value.

Electricity Bill Payment: You will continue to receive a bill from Pepco and are responsible for paying the bill. If your Pepco account becomes deactivated, this may cause your subscription to be cancelled. If this happens, you will have to reapply to join the Program, upon reinstatement of your Pepco account.

Income Verification: As a participant of our DOEE Low Income Energy Assistance Program you are considered certified for a period of 42 months from the date you are enrolled in the program.

Early Termination: You may terminate your subscription at any time by notifying DOEE. We may terminate your subscription early if we determine that you no longer meet the eligibility requirements. Your subscription will automatically terminate without notice upon change of address or change of Pepco account number. There is no penalty for early termination.

Assignment: You may not transfer or assign your subscription to any other person or household.

Data Release: You agree to allow DOEE, or its designee, to access and use your historic and future electricity usage and billing data directly from Pepco and your Program subscriber data for the duration of your subscription for analysis, to ensure that credits are being allocated correctly, and to verify compliance with the terms of the Program and relevant District regulations.

Waiver of Claims: In exchange for receiving CNM Credits from the Program, you agree that you will not bring any claims or actions against DOEE in connection with our providing CNM Credits to you. If you are unsatisfied with our performance, your sole remedy is to terminate your subscription. You acknowledge that we are not ensuring that you will receive any particular amount of savings, or any savings at all (due to circumstances beyond our control such as if solar production ceases, if laws or regulations change, etc.) and that the number of CNM Credits that you receive will depend on the generation of electricity by the associated solar facility and the number of subscribers in the Program, among other factors. You are not eligible to receive any tax benefits or environmental attributes related to the solar facility.

LIHEAP benefits

In fiscal year 2020 (October 1, 2019 – September 30, 2020) if you have a Pepco account you will be eligible for the approximately $500 Solar for All credit over the year, as well as at least the minimum Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) benefit of a $250 one-time credit on either your gas or electric bill.

Solar for All benefits will not impact your ability to receive emergency LIHEAP funding. However, DOEE may change this policy in future years, as funding and need varies year by year. As a Solar for All benefit recipient you will see savings for at least 15 years and your LIHEAP benefits may be adjusted in any of those 15 years.

Ultimately, LIHEAP benefits will be based on energy usage and energy burden. And over time, as a Program participant you will gradually need less bill assistance over time as your Solar for All benefits accrue.

Households that are already recipients of benefits from the Program may not submit another application. If you are unsure whether you may already be a recipient of such benefits, please contact solarforall@dc.gov or (202) 299-5271 to confirm your status.
